Enduro training for travel enduros

Training schedule

Big touring bikes are fantastic motorcycles, you can comfortably ride big tours with them and even if the roads are not great, they are a loyal companion. But even if it should be possible to go off-road, many people ask themselves if and what such an enduro can really do off-road. This question will be answered in our travel enduro training.

Experienced trainers will introduce you step by step to increasingly difficult terrain and you will learn how to move the heavy machine safely even on such terrain and also where its limits are.

With the registration you will also receive tips for accommodation.
