This trail follows part of the route taken by the Mongolia Master Rally. Most of the 1600 kilometres are off-road; sometimes the track will be fast and other times it is rough and difficult so technical skill and stamina are required because the daily riding hours are long.

The trip is in a remote part of 'Ovorkhangai' province and we travel south from Ulaanbaatar to the edge of the Gobi Desert, returning via a more mountainous landscape. Accommodation will be wild camping in tents with no luxurious facilities.

Tour Highlights:

- Ikh Gazriin Chuluu (dramatic granite rock formations)
- Gobi Desert
- Rare Gobi Saxaul Trees
- Herds of Bactrian Camels
- Nomadic families
- Ulaan Khamariin Bulsh (Red Cliffs)
- Mountain, Steppe, and Desert Zones

Itinerary:

Day 1: Arrive Ulaanbaatar

Afternoon or evening meet the tour leader and the rest of the group. At the pre-tour meeting, we will talk about the day-by-day itinerary and safety issues. Overnight hotel.

Day 2: Ulaanbaatar - Bayantsagaan

After allocating the bikes, set off from the city, riding first to 'Nalaikh', then going off-road. The landscape is open and hilly with several low passes to cross. There are some unusual granite rock formations, such as those near the small temple of "Emgui Had" which is surrounded by white stupas. After lunch, we continue riding to the village of 'Bayan-Tsagaan' and set up camp in the surrounding hills.

Day 3: Bayantsagaan - Ikh Gazariin Chuluu

Ride to 'Gobi Ugtaal' village then to the mountains known as 'Ikh Gazariin Chuluu' where the highest peaks are at an altitude of over 1700 meters. This is an amazing place with a dramatic skyline and is a very photogenic and beautiful camping place.

Day 4: Ikh Gazariin Chuluu - Delgerkhangai

The landscape becomes more open as we ride southwards to 'Mandal-Gobi', capital of Middle Gobi province. The track proceeds towards the dark massif of "Delgerkhangai" mountain, which we ride towards for several hours before arriving at the village of 'Delgerkhangai' at the foot of the mountain. The road winds up into the mountains to the highest pass at 1502 meters altitude. This is another unexpected and exciting mountain range in the middle of the central Mongolian steppe. Exit the mountains and ride on mainly flat terrain in an increasingly remote wilderness, many tracks of which are not marked on maps at all. Overnight camping in 'Mandal-Ovoo' district.

Day 5: Delgerkhangai - Bogd Village

We ride parallel with a range of low rocky hills with many holes and caves in. As we approach the northern edge of the Gobi Desert the ground becomes sandy with many pink flowering types of grass and "Zag" ("Saxaul") trees. This is the true home of the Bactrian camel. Sometimes the track is sandy, but if it rains this turns to sticky clay making it very difficult to ride; occasionally the road has been destroyed by rain. Pass beside "Ulaan Khamariin Bulsh" whose red cliffs are an interesting feature on the landscape, while ahead lie the big dark "Arts Bogdiin Nuruu" mountains. Finally arrive at the village of 'Bogd'. Overnight camping.

Day 6: Bogd Village - Sant Village

Now traveling northwards, many tracks criss-cross the countryside, dividing and re-joining, or going off in another direction. Sometimes the road is in a very poor condition having been partly destroyed by flooding, and after the rain would be muddy and difficult to ride. Cross a bridge over the "Arguut" river and pass through several small villages before setting up camp in the hills leading to 'Sant' village. Overnight camping.

Day 7: Sant Village - Zorgol Khaikhan

From the village of 'Sant', the scenery is pretty with fertile rolling hills and layer upon layer of mountains in the background. Some areas have unusually shaped rocks, and there are ancient graves in the area of Shireet mountain. Ride to Erdenedalai village, then north to the unusual Zorgol Khaikhan granite mountains in Bayanunjuul district. Overnight camping.

Day 8: Zorgol Khaikhan - Ulaanbaatar

From the Zorgol Khaikhan mountains, we ride to 'Bayan-Unjuul' village and through the nearby sand dunes. Part of the distance today will be on the new tarmac road and we arrive in Ulaanbaatar on the east side of the city.

Day 9: Departure.
